Risky Business – The benefits of positive risk taking

Risk is a necessary and important part of life for all of us, but for professionals and carers there is a strong emphasis on managing risk and protecting our clients from harm. There maybe a potential to be over cautious which can result in limiting an individual's choices, quality of life, experiences and development.

Although there can be challenges with positive risk-taking, taking well-calculated, managed risks can lead to enjoyable experiences for our clients and help them retain their independence as much as possible. Positive risk management does not mean trying to eliminate risk. It means managing risks to maximise people's choice and control over their lives.

Understanding the Sensory Challenges for Successful Toilet Training

Developing the skills for toileting is important for all children, but is often more difficult for those with additional needs. Understanding around how to best support children develop the required skills has increased, as has awareness of how sensory issues impact toileting.

This seminar will discuss the role of the senses in learning the skills to use the toilet and offer suggestions for techniques to support children with sensory issues or differences to achieve their potential to be clean and dry.

How to make great occupational therapy referrals

Occupational therapy makes a difference to children and young people, but it can be difficult to access the help children need to realise their potential and live their best lives at home, at school and elsewhere.

This session will help participants:-

- Understand the role of occupational therapy with children and young people
- Know how to frame an occupational therapy referral so children and young people can access the right help, first time.

The session is for parents/carers, teachers and others who refer to occupational therapy, and for occupational therapists who want to keep occupation at the centre of their practice.

Dear Professionals...

Dear Professionals... is inspired by the things parent-carers would so desperately like to say to the many professionals they see regularly. In addition to gratitude, this provides space to reflect on the small things that practitioners do which have a huge impact, for better or worse.

The objectives of this session are for both practitioners and parent-carers to explore the simple and meaningful ways in which true personalised care can build bridges, nurture communication and improve the lives of the people they support.

Relationship and Sex Education (RSE) for young people with complex neurodisabilities

There is a misconception that Relationship and Sex Education (RSE) is unnecessary for young people with complex neurodisabilities.

We found:

- Limited adapted RSE education for children and young people to learn, stay safe, understand their bodies, relationships, and sexuality.
- Staff ill-equipped to teach RSE to young people with complex neurodisabilities.

- No appropriate resources.
- Lack of training regarding personal care.
- Families/carers unaware of the need for RSE or uncertain how to address it.

Teaching RSE with confidence can change peoples' lives. We have trained teachers, support staff, governors, parents, therapists, social workers and senior managers. I will talk about the course and how to teach/support in RSE.

SEND and EHCPs – Know Your Rights

We will take parents through:-

- The difficulties in obtaining an Education & Health Care Plan (EHCP)
- What an EHCP should look like
- School issues
- Parental rights through the processes
- Annual reviews
- Ceasing an EHCP
- The rights of a young person (from 16 years old)

By the end of the session, parents should be empowered to challenge the local authority decisions and know the appropriate route to challenge the LA.

Parents will know more about what an EHCP should look like which will, hopefully, inform them as they move through the process of drafting an EHCP or reviewing an EHCP at annual review.
